Nealley Speaks On
Evolution Question

Mr. Nealley, in a talk before the discussion group Friday, outlined the history of evolution, and differentiated between the hypothesis of Darwin and the broader term evolution.

In less than one hour what had been a hazy supposition emerged clear and intelligible, much to the surprise of a number of the students, who had supposed that it would take a much longer time to explain the theory.

The discussion group is under the sponsorship of the Campus Y, and not of Mr. Nealley and Mrs. Tessmann, as was erroneously stated in last week's Don.

Algol Pictures
Shot This Week

Arrangements for Algol group pictures are now under way. Next Wednesday afternoon, March 7, during the practice hour the women's basketball, hockey, and swimming teams' pictures will be taken. The men's track team, Lettermen's club, and W. A. A. pictures will also be taken, also be taken.

Thursday, March 8, the following pictures will be taken: Honor society, Bachelors, Y. W., Y. M. cabinets, A. W. S., French club, German club, Spanish club, and Press club.

Catherine Best Is
Winner of Contest

Today in assembly the reward of a bright five dollar gold piece will be presented to Catherine Best, winner of the recent cartoon contest conducted by the Don.

The work, which was of a great variety, will be used in future Don work.

Miss Best's cartoon had the national theme of defense, patriotism, honor and sovereignty. The cartoons submitted by Rosemary Thomasson and Pauline Neddermeyer received honorable mention for their work. Miss Neddermeyer chose as her theme a student cramming for finals, while Miss Thomasson sketched some faculty members.

Rev. Schrock Leads
Discussion For Y. W.

Rev. Perry Schrock, pastor of the Congregational church, led a discussion on world fellowship at the potluck supper held last evening by the Y. W. C. A. in the hut.

Lois Green discussed the purpose of the Y. W. and Mary Bruner led the girls and singing.

In about two weeks the Y. W. will have more school stationary to offer to students. The stationary will again be sold at the former price of thirty cents for twenty sheets and ten envelopes. Adelaide Mueller has charge of the stationary sale and any students wishing to get it will please see her.

The women of the Y. W. are already planning for their delegation to Asilomar. The annual Asilomar banquet will be held March 19, 1928. Further plans will be announced when completed.

Fiesta Being Planned

Although no definite plans for the Spanish fiesta have as yet been made, many inspirations for the carrying out of an elaborate affair have come to John Fitz, chairman of the Fiesta committee, it was learned by a reporter in an interview recently.

The committee in charge is seeking to make the fiesta an affair which will win a place in the traditions of the college and in the hearts of the students. Fitz is anticipating a five day celebration which will include entertainment and performance for the Spanish Fiesta have as Spanish fiesta.

Walker and Gerhardt Meet Long
Beach In First League Debate"Pinafore" Parts
Still Uncertain

Try-outs for the parts in the comic opera, "Pinafore", have held the attention of the music department for the past two weeks.

At the time of going to press only one of the principals has been chosen by the judges, Mrs. Beeson and Miss Macartney. Charles Haas will sing the part of Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first lord of the Admiralty.

Parts not yet assigned include Captain Concoran, commanding the H. M. S. Pinafore; Ralph Rackstraw, seaman; Dick Deadeye, another seaman; Bill Bobstay, boatswain; Tom Tucker, midshipmite; Sergeant of Marines; Josephine, the captain's daughter; Hebe, and Little Buttercup, a bumboat woman, "the rosiest, roundest, and reddest beauty of all Spithead."

J. F. Burke Addresses
College Press Club

Informality was the keynote of the Press club meeting Thursday evening at which J. Franke Burke, editor of the Register, addressed the members.

"Newspaper Standards" was the topic on which Mr. Burke spoke. He told the various standards that different papers have and try to live up to. "Some newspapers," he said, "emphasize accuracy while others strive to print all the news at any cost."

Following Burke's talk the affair became very informal and the remainder of the evening was spent in group singing, playing cards and enjoying refreshments of pumpkin pie and whip cream with hot chocolate.

Feminist Meeting

Appropriate discussion of the annual St. Patrick's dance, at which the women of the college entertain the b. f.'s will mark the only feminist movement in J. C. brought about by this odd day, February 29.

The discussion will take place today after assembly at which the women will definitely decide the time and place of their leap year dance. "The date of the dance will be either the 16th or 17th of March", stated Vera May Smith, who is in charge of the affair.

Santa Ana Has Chance For League Championship

Whether or not Santa Ana has a chance at the Southern California junior college debating title will be decided when the local varsity debaters meet Long Beach here in the high school auditorium next Friday, March 2, at 8 p. m.

The local college will be represented by James Walker and Edwin Gerhardt who will uphold the affirmative side of the league question whether or not a nation with an advanced civilization is justified in forcing its civilization on an inferior people.

If the local debaters succeed in trouncing the Long Beach pair, the Southern California junior college title will be as good as cinched, for the local team will only have to out-talk one of the smaller college teams in one of the other smaller leagues. The team is now second in the league.

Long Beach has been the only college in the league that has thus far succeeded in winning a debate when supporting the affirmative side. The local team is expecting to have their hands full for Long Beach is heading the league with a witty and convincing pair.

Students Advised
About Transferring

Students desiring to transfer to other colleges should get their applications at once, advised Dean McKee Fisk.

Those wishing to go to Mills, Stanford, Pomona or Occidental, should send their applications in before April 1. Those desiring to go to U. C., U. S. C., or any of the other colleges do not have to send their applications in before school is out.

Stanford will give its entrance examination here on Friday afternoon, March 9. Those students that have taken the local college entrance will not be required to take those of other colleges.

German Students

Conversation and original stories related in German entertained the members of the German club at their lunch at 1 p. m. Monday, February 27 at James'.

Election of officers was postponed to a future date. Miss Lella Watson was faculty guest and Miss Flora Groenow, president presided.

Editorial Comment

Youth Protests

Youth protests! Where is the faith of our fathers?
When the maliciousness of Hickman is flaunted as the probable end toward which young folk are stupidly tumbling, would it not be well to remember that Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh is a youth of today? Intelligent critics would not consider a "Fox" in preference to an "Eagle". It is ridiculous.

Youth objects to the pessimism of short-sighted critical dribble—we challenge its truth and so doing direct such limited vision to the skies, for only there will our ideals be found.

One of Those Gentle Reminders

One of the finest things that college can give us is the sense of our own individuality and dignity. We come to realize ourselves as men and women, and learn to use those names with a flourish.

When we go laughing and shouting through the halls, trying to persuade ourselves that our actions are collegiate and youthful, we are only fooling ourselves. Noise-making is youthful—so youthful as to be infantile—but most of these "men" and "women" who persist in disturbing classes and making themselves generally obnoxious are as yet too immature to realize it. Their actions are suited to high school freshmen rather than college freshmen and sophomores.

We students are particularly fortunate in being allowed to come and go as we will. Students of certain other nearby junior colleges are required to spend free periods in study halls and the library. It is time we awaken to our good fortune and enjoy our privilege with consideration to other people.

Debates

More and more often the realization that anything with the appearance of being cultured holds no appeal for the majority of the college students. The latest example is the debate which is to be held this Friday. Information has been secured that a large crowd is coming here to hear the debate and therefore Santa Ana must make a good showing.

Student Verse

(Editorial note: John Spears is not a junior college student, but corresponds in verse with one.)

Omnia Wink At Amor

"A worthier tongue than mine has sung,
The final song of victory.
This strife is past; the bells are rung—
Congratulations, Ray Magee!
"As Romeo had Juliet;
As Abelard had Heloise;
So Raymond has Alberta yet—
And Johnnie has—his memories.
"But though my heart is tempest tossed,
Still through the clouds I see the sun—
'Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than to have loved and won!"
—John Spears

The Caravan

Over the dreary desert
The Caravan winds its way,
Traveling in the night-time,
Resting in the day.
From twilight hour
Till the break of dawn,
Carrying their precious burdens,
The camels still go on.
They carry silk from China
And pearls from India's shores,
The finest of Persian carpets
To cover Caliphs' floors.
The sun is now just rising
As the Caravan rounds ahead,
And lo! there is Damascus,
The place of all journeys' end.
—Irene O'Brien

Campus Chatter

There was a young lady named Capps,
Who refused to sit on men's laps,
But would say with a frown,
On her way back to town,
"I'll bring my skates next time, perhaps."

There once was a young man named Flaws,
Who tickled the keys with his paws.
'Twas the wrong thing to do,
Just between me and you,
But he chewed up his food in his jaws.

There was a professor named Nealey,
Who said to his class, "You know really,
Phrenology's bunk;
Physiognomy's junk;
But rely on psychology freely."

There was a young lady named Plank,
Who kept all her wealth in a bank.
She wanted less weight,
But she ate and she ate,
And her bank roll, accordingly, shrank.

There once was a young man named Lawrence,
Who said, while the rain fell in torrents,
"The rain I don't mind,
But I think I shall find,
That the black sticky mud is abhorrence."

There was a young fellow named Drew,
Who was feeling uncommonly blew,
'Til a good looking girl
Set his head in a whirl.
Now he says, "It's too good to be true."

There was a young lady named Haines,
Who possessed a good portion of brains,
Said a boy friend, one eve,
"Kid, I sure do believe,
You know lots more than most college jaines."

Superstitious?

"Black cats make me think of flat tires"—"That the female of the species is more deadly than the male"—or what have you for your pet superstitions?

These are some of the results of the questionnaire given the psychology 1B class by E. M. Nealley. Sixty-eight per cent of the class have superstitions. Three persons actually believe in them, while sixteen members of the class partially believe.

Two pet superstitions which received the greatest favor were those of black cats and knocking on wood. Others which some of the class believe in are the breaking of a wishbone, the number thirteen, dreams, a new moon, and walking on opposite sides of a post.

GIRLS DON'T READ THIS

Fearing that the male of the species may some day be exterminated by the modern co-ed, we wish to state that we, too, have our ideals.

We rise in revolt against these "Girls' Ideal Man" articles that have been dinned into our ears of late. Men, our time has come! Leap Year is upon us! Arise, defend yourselves!

Here's our Ideal Girl:

1. She must be impervious to the attractions of others.
2. She must not indulge extensively (or expensively) in cosmetics.
3. She must be a good listener.
4. She must be simple (not dumb) and frank.
5. She must be peppy.
6. She must be kind, even to the extent of laughing at our jokes.
7. She must not smoke nor drink.
8. She must not have a $100 appetite on a $2 date.

Cook's Comments

About fifty per cent of Stanford students work outside of school hours. The school maintains an employment office which operates very efficiently. It is wise to apply early in the year and furnish the secretary with all the details of your accomplishments, so as to insure a desired position.

Time is not lost in which one learns something of use, even though it be aside from the prescribed curriculum. Students to whom it is necessary to create part of the funds for their education will find it more to their advantage if they will seek to combine these two factors of both acquiring capital and useful experience which is out of the line of strictly manual labor.

Those who plan to assume outside employment will also find that some other interests will have to be forsaken. Social engagements suffer and some other things that we enjoy have to be discarded. It is a question of which seems the more important. It is a personal feeling with this correspondent that those things of a lighter nature are easily extended to some time in the future when time and opportunity afford. However, that is a matter for individual decision.

Another thing should be added, and that is, that here at Stanford, at least, there is no discrimination towards those who work. In fact the men who wait on tables at the women's dormitory are often invited to their formal dances. This democratic spirit seems to be a part of the life and probably is at other places in this part of the country.

This information on the possibilities open to young folk, who seriously adopt a purpose in living and are willing to see it through, is offered to enlighten and encourage any who fear to go on because of lack of funds. Unless these and other reasons of health, or family needs which may hinder, no student should allow this to restrain him. It is a matter of stringent test of purposiveness and it makes the job of going to school a little less attractive from the pure objective standpoint.

May this be said to those who are in doubt. It is possible to earn a good share of the expenses. Fifty or sixty dollars a month count a great deal toward keeping the debt in smaller figures, and many students make this amount and more besides their regular university work.

College Questionnaires Reveal Many Interesting Facts On J. C. Students

Nealley Gives Results on "Bad" And "Not Bad" Test

How bad is bad? Is it "bad" to dance? To drink? To swear? To smoke?

Professor E. M. Nealley recently gave a questionnaire which revealed the attitudes of the students on such questions. It was a list of so-called "bad practices", and students were asked to place them under the two heads "bad" or "not bad". As given in the questionnaire the list included lying, cheating, dancing, extravagance, gambling, gossip, selfishness, smoking, snobbishness, idleness, stealing, vulgar talk, sex irregularity, Sabbath breaking, and swearing.

Apparently the men desired to rescue their manhood by reserving the right of smoking for men only, for 44 per cent of the students claimed that men had a right to smoke, but only 39 per cent accorded to the women the same privilege.

If lawlessness can be judged by the percentage of dancers, the Santa Ana junior college crowd must be a "wild bunch", for only eleven of all the 151 who took this questionnaire denounced dancing as a "bad practice."

Probably they are also a little more independent or pleasure-loving than the previous generation because 40 per cent of the students think there is no harm in breaking the Sabbath.

Popular scandification may have it that half the young folks of today think drinking perfectly all right, but, in this questionnaire, all but 6.6 per cent, or ten students, voted drinking "bad".

Evidently not many of the students tried to justify any of their habitual acts, because only one person stated that he thought it no sin to lie; only one, to cheat.

Just so with the idlers. Only 19 per cent held that idleness was no crime. The same opinion of extravagance was held by 22 per cent.

But there were some practices which the students almost unanimously denounced as "bad". These were sex irregularity, cheating, stealing, lying, drinking, and vulgar talk.

Athletic Seasons End With Spread

Patriotic Motif Carried Out In Decoration

As a fitting close for the basketball and volley ball seasons the W. A. A. planned and gave a spread in the Y hut Thursday evening, February 23.

Dinner was served at tables tastefully decorated in a patriotic motif.

Tuna a la king, creamed peas and carrots, bread and butter, and ice cream with cookies made up the menu. Virginia Powell was chairman of the food committee with Mary Bruner, Josephine Ball and Helen Drake assisting her.

Alice Prather had charge of decorations. The place cards were declared particularly clever because of tiny drawings of girls playing basketball and small insignias for the team each girl played on. The insignias were pictures of pirates, bruins, horses, and brownies. Margaret Glenn printed and drew the clever pictures on the place cards.

Following dinner all adjourned to the gymnasium where a mock wedding was held. Catherine Jessup was the blushing bride with Alice Prather as her bride-groom. The bride wore regulation gym clothes; her veil was a tennis net and she carried a bouquet of Indian clubs. All other participants in the wedding wore some sort of athletic regalia.

Preceding the dance the Bachelors entertained their co-ed friends with a banquet at Ketner's gold room. Favors and place cards were in keeping with the patriotic motif. Impromptu speeches were given by several bachelors, after which the officers were installed for the coming semester.

Guyer Flashes Down Cinder Path to 9.8 Near Record Victory Over Pirate Star

Although the Don tracksters took a beating from the Pasadena Pirates Friday to the tune of 91-35, Maurice "Red" Guyer covered himself with glory and took first place in both the century and 220 yard dash. Red put one foot in front of the other fast enough to beat Caines of Pasadena in the 100, running that distance in 9.8 seconds.

In the 220 this same red-headed speed demon broke the tape with Hind second and Caines third. The time for this event was 22.2 seconds. Mel Caines of Pasadena was last years conference champion in the century but his showing this year is not up to his usual par.

Scott Issues Call For Net Candidates

Coach Scott is issuing the call for all candidates for the tennis team to report to him as soon as possible. Practice will start immediately and an elimination tournament will be played shortly before the official season opens to determine the members of the team to represent Santa Ana.

"A lot of fellows aren't coming out for the team because they feel they aren't good enough," said Coach Scott, "but we need them. Any man in college is eligible to try for a place on the team and plenty of competition is necessary if we are to turn out a winning team. Prior to the final tournament there will be a practice tournament or two to give the fellows some action and to give me a line on their respective worth. We've some good material here and ought to turn out first class teams to represent Santa Ana in the tournaments."

The Bullets scored a two to one victory over the Hockey Balls, Monday Feb. 27, when the two fresh-women hockey teams clashed.

No goals were made during the first half, but in the second half both teams succeeded in making one goal. As the score stood one to one at the end of the game an extra five minutes was played. In this time the Bullets scored a goal.

Helen Richards and Deloise Johnson were the goal makers for the Bullets and Francis Reid made the Hockey Ball's goal.

Grace Prichard, right half back on the Bullet team played an exceptionally good game. On the Hockey Balls' team Margaret Glenn and Mabel Robertson were the outstanding players.

Friday night the basketball fans will witness the final game of the season when the Dons meet the Menlo junior college team on the local court. The visitors are from the northern part of the state and are on a tour of the Southern Conference.

Coach Scott has been holding practice all this week in preparation for the game. The Dons are training for this game very earnestly and are hoping to trounce the visitors and thus round out their season and bring it to a creditable close.

In the preliminary game, the Frosh and Sophs will tangle once more to break the tie established some time ago. The two teams are pretty evenly matched if past performances are indicative at all and the game promises to be a fast and furious contest from start to finish.
